James, "leader of the colliers in wildness & sin" ca 1740, see Wesley, KW & its free Churches", Eayrs BRL. This poor deluded man broke his fiddle as it was a symbol of his former "sinful" life, and he was held up as exemplary by those who presumably thought the destruction of music and dancing was godly - or more likely had their own agenda.

ROOM

FREDERICK GEORGE ROOM, VC., born 24 Congleton Road, St George, 1895. The Citation reads:

"For most conspicuous bravery when in charge of his company stretcher bearers. During the day the company had many casualties, principally from enemy machine guns and snipers. The company was holding a line of shell-holes and short trenches. Lance Corporal Room worked continuously under intense fire, dressing the wounded and helping evacuate them. Throughout this period, with complete disregard for his own life he showed unremitting devotion to his duties. By his courage and fearlessness he was the means of saving many of his comrades' lives."

Victoria Cross, August 16th 1917, Frezenburg, France. London Gazette October 17th 1917
Presented with VC at Durdham Downs 8th November 1917 by HM King George V.
